AN ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Having been given the responsibility of being Editor, I found that this semi-annual could not have been produced without your help. In this letter I wish to thank not only the staff members, but the 4A class, the Faculty, and other Fengerites who have helped to make this Courier possible.

Modernism was our theme. Through the assistance of Miss Helen Vizard and Mr. George Aiken and their pupils, some of whom are: Ruth Reitman, Gertrude Gross, Jack Thompson, Beryl Rumbold, Anita Schwab, Betty Pleckavicus, Frank Filippi, Grace Ryan, James Hoekstra and Dorothy Dasher, produced what seems to me, quite an attractive book.

Paul Lenke, Gottlieb Schoenwald, Leonard Johnson, Edward Smith, Horace Etscheid, William Stewart and Richard Boonstra assisted the two Art Editors in producing the panels which emphasized modernism.

Picture taking, which involves almost everyone in the school would have been a terrific turmoil but for the services of Mr. Claude Smitter, Russell Steubing, Chief of Police, Richard Dekker, Don Victor, Abe Mer, and Robert Sloan and Baron Cheffer, who preserved order.

To get these articles typewritten in time for the printer was a tremendous task. The chief typist, Florence Fox, cannot sufficiently commend the following people for their speed and accuracy: Gladys Tower, Lillian Battaglin, Ruth Sandaker, Anne Hopkins, Marie King, Helen Newton, Rena Ala, Margaret Hanko, Marion Griffin, Isabel Joeof, Irene Tananewicz, Stephanie Jaromin, Flora Salancy, Mary Furno, Frances Milbauer, Bernadine Graves, Sirmish Chakmakjian, Myra Thompson, Cleta Griffith, Paul Szakach, Doris Carlson, Margot Dering, Betty McCracken, Rose Fina, Albina Potapczik, Adele Petraitis, Vera Wattles, Carmella Veneziano, Mary Vashik, and Elsie Harper. We wish, too, to thank for their coöperation and kindness, Miss Marie McCutcheon and Miss Effie Miller.

You who are not yet seniors do not realize what a problem it is to get nearly two hundred people to the Photographers to have their pictures taken. But without the aid of Marian Badgely, Sophie Bartus, Dorothe Johnson and John Gyuricza, this would have been impossible.

Although we have a G.A.A., B.A.A., Humor and various editors, they could not have covered the necessary information required to fill the book so they went to specialists in various lines. I join them in their expression of gratitude to the following: Miss Elizabeth Campbell, Mrs. Jessie Anderson, Mrs. Norma Schroder, Miss Mae Froom, Mrs. Hazel Steinfeldt, Mr. Frank Young, Mr. Wesley Fotch, Charles Riddell, Marion Badgely, Harrison Gray, Constance Walker, Josephine Edelstein, George Cox, Marcus Alexander, Russell Stuebing, Abe Mer, and Joseph Schmidt.

To get clever snapshots of students in every year was done exceptionally well by Gertrude Ross, James Jamison, Phyllis Dahms, Frances Milbauer, Mary Barker, Agnes Alexander and Josephine Edelstein. The snapshot editor, Teresa Schmidt, wishes to thank them and the student body for their contributions.

Then, too, this book never could have been printed but for the generously helpful backing and advice from our principal and our assistant principal, Frederick W. Schacht and Ferdinand F. Zipf. Gratitude also is due the many teachers and pupils who aided in putting over a most successful subscription campaign.

Lastly, I thank Miss Ruth W. Robinson, our competent adviser, whose helping hand has saved us many a day.

ADELINE KNAPP,
Editor-in-Chief.

A DEDICATION

To Frederick W. Schacht, our principal, counsellor, our friend—for, although he has been here but a short while, his untiring service, his willingness to help, his unbounded interest in all activities, and his unlimited patience have endeared him immeasurably to the students and faculty of Fenger High.

AN APPRECIATION

It was with considerable trepidation that I, practically a stranger, entered upon my duties in your school city of twenty-seven hundred inhabitants. But you did not long allow me to remain a stranger. Almost immediately I was invited to appear before a large group of seniors—which is equivalent to saying leaders—that I might indicate to them opportunities for cooperation. Somewhat later smaller groups of leaders met with me in the principal's office, and in every case the spirit in which they came was most pleasing to the stranger, no longer quite so much a stranger. Now, long before the first semester is ended, I have been welcomed into your midst, alike by faculty and student body, and my thinking is definitely in terms of "we" and "our." For this I thank you.

4A CLASS HISTORY

At last, classmates, we have the opportunity to praise ourselves and to make known our accomplishments, abilities, and talents. In September, 1926, we became Freshies in numbers five hundred strong—the largest Freshman class ever registering at Fenger. Startled, fascinated, and bewildered by the newness of high school life, we were just getting adjusted to our division rooms when we moved to the new Fenger. What a glorious time we made of that exciting parade. Weren't we joyous and carefree in those green stages? But, alas, how times have changed! With the willing aid of our division room teachers, who included Miss Crum, Miss Stevens, Miss Grace Thomas, Miss Smith, Mrs. Whitworth, Mrs. Borst (Miss Trissel), and Mrs. Diamond (Miss Dean), we soon settled down to work. From the beginning we branched out into a championship life, which we have continued throughout our high school career.

The girls' team of room 244, with Stella Derkacy as captain, started us off in glory by winning the School Championship in Girls' base ball. How proud the girls of that victorious team were in having their pictures taken for the Courier and in receiving individual G. A. A. bars! The Phorex Honor Society's membership was greatly increased by our brainy classmates. Many of our number served the Students' Council faithfully. Adeline Knapp, delighting even then in gathering news, was one of our enthusiastic room reporters and the "little carrier" of absentee slips. Remember?

Then came vacation; and in September, 1927, we returned to school as Sophomores. Wasn't it keen to be able to lord it over the new Freshmen? That, too, was an eventful year in our history. We began to study Geometry (oh! oh!) and how terrified we were of Miss Kurtz. But no longer! Now we reserve a special place in our hearts for her individual, pleasing, and admirable personality. The Biology Club was organized, and among other interesting meetings a wonderful excursion to the Sand Dunes was enjoyed by many of the members from our class. The Junior Drama Club also first began its existence. Our basketball teams beat Pullman Tech decisively, and were we proud!

Our Junior year was one of our brightest and most important ones. Many boys who had entered athletic life in their Sophomore year became distinguished. Tom Kennett gathered in the swimming honors, having been declared the best all round swimmer in Chicago. Nick Maravolo broke the high jumping record and since then has attained new honors. Miller, Riddell, and Stuebing also figured prominently in track. Flesvig, Strain, Cedergreen, Crosaro, Fialkowski, Riddell, Westman, and Stasewicz shone in the football world. Westman, Kopac, and Schoenwald featured in baseball. Greek, Mer, and Schoenwald "went out big" for basketball, and did they make it big! In tennis Fenger was represented by Mer and Jamison. Mer was elected B. A. A. President, also. In the girls' athletics Marion Badgley became G. A. A. President and was the first girl of our class to receive her school letter. Scholarship, as well as athletics, means a great deal, for is that not our main object in attending school? Consequently, we are proud of our brainiest and most honored members who include: Marion Pederson, Jane Alexander, Nicholas Kuehn, Helen Keller, Nick Maravalo, Anna Penn, and others, too many to name. Many girls of our ranks joined the Junior Girls' Club. Both boys and girls joined the Glee Club and helped to present the operetta, "Lotta," and the May Festival held each year at Orchestra Hall. The G. A. A. Pageant of many nations was one of the most gorgeous and interesting events in which our girls displayed their athletic and artistic skill. Then, also, the Style Show brought some of us into the limelight.

As we turn back in our memory book, it is with sad hearts that we think of two of our dearest classmates, Helen Giroux, who died in 1927, and William Perry, who died in 1929. They both had many friends among our ranks who every day miss their kind confidence, cheery personalities, and eagerness to please. William Perry's drawings and cartoons were continually brightening up the English classrooms' exhibits. We shall grieve because of their absence at Graduation; two chairs shall be in our minds dedicated to our fond memory of them. Never shall we forget their loyal friendship.

In this, our noble senior year, we are striving to uphold our reputation of being "most honorable." Service for Fenger has been our chief motive and the theme of our high school days. Surely, the Fenger News Staff renders to us one of the greatest items of service—that of preparing and distributing our weekly school paper. Many of our class (Albert Saxe, Alma Anderson, Marian Schuh, and Teresa Schmidt) aid in this production. Elizabeth Jackman, pianist for the Glee Clubs and many Assembly programs, ranks high in service to her school. The Students' Council is officered by seven from our class, elsewhere mentioned. The library is ably assisted by Marian Schuh, the lunchroom by Lyle La Croix, and the office by Sophie Bartus, Esther Levin, Antoinette Klesen, Ruth Steinman, Lillian Raklovits, Helen Kulan, Julia Du Fresne, Florence Fox, and Dorothe Johnson. In fact, all school activity and accomplishments, as you see by looking through this book and too much for me to give in detail, are based on the giving of service. We are glad of the opportunity to offer to Fenger our service in return for the benefit we have derived from it. All of these championships we have obtained and good times we have had in Fenger have inspired us to keep up this effort for Fenger. We rejoice in being the largest class Fenger has ever produced and the first one graduating under Principal Schacht. Truly, our four years at Fenger will be memories that will ever live with us. We hope that our teachers may be justly proud of us. For their splendid co-operation we are thankful, and hope that, after leaving Fenger's friendly portals, we may be of better service to the world.

GREATER CHICAGO SCHOLASTIC PRESS GUILD

In June, 1929, the Greater Chicago Scholastic Press Guild, of which Fenger, represented by Adeline Knapp, is treasurer, was organized to promote better journalism in high school publications in Chicago. At each of their monthly meetings at the Medill School of Journalism, Northwestern University, the Guild has a prominent speaker who talks on problems confronting the high school journalist; and after his talk there is open discussion, followed by round tables, each dealing with a different subject. Through the coöperation of the Guild the National Convention of the N. S. P. A. was held in Chicago, December 5, 6 and 7. A banquet was given at the Hotel Knickerbocker December 6. The most prominent journalists and writers of the day spoke at various lectures given during the three days at Northwestern University. A student attending these monthly meetings can learn how to make his stories more effective, how to find new sources for material, and, especially, how to gain interviews with such prominent people as Jane Addams, Frederick Stock, and Donald McMillan.

JUNIOR RED CROSS COUNCIL

The Junior Red Cross Council of Chicago is composed of two student representatives from every public high school, private academy, and parochial school in Chicago and surrounding territories. Its purpose is to organize and develop better Red Cross service. Meetings are held the first Saturday of each school month at 10:30 A. M. in Room T of the First National Bank of Chicago. The officers are Chairman, Maurice Ramm of Harvard School for Boys; and Secretary, Jeanne Baumgartl of Francis Parker Private School. At the meetings the discussion of school plans for Red Cross work, the pledging of individual service and the hearing of speeches by famous civil workers contribute to the interest of the work. Luncheons are planned usually once every two months for the purpose of helping members to get better acquainted. Delegates are chosen by members to represent them at the National Red Cross Convention held every year the first week of May at Washington, D. C. This year three are being sent.

In the Council for this year 1929-1930, Fenger's representatives, who were chosen by Miss Campbell, Dean of Girls, were Marian Shirran and Jane Alexander.

"OUR CODE"

To enter "High" to study, work and play,
To know its fun, but never scoff nor leer;
To share its comradeship so bright, so gay,
To go thus through our Fenger freshman year.

To play the game, to play it hard: and yet,
To hold our own, but kindly be each day;
To give and take, but let us not forget
To give; we do but gain: for life's that way.

To loyal be, to school and all it means,
To faithful be, in all we do today;
To constant be, in thought and deed. It seems
To take such courage thus to go our way.

To so prepare ourselves, and then at last
To fill our place in life—this is our task.

—Doris Carlson.

CLASS POEM

On the sunny sands of Life's great sea
We spent four happy years.
Light hearted and gay, like the foamy spray,
Of the world we had no fears.

Sometimes a pebble marred that smooth shore,
Or the swift-flowing tide barred our way;
The white-capped billows gnashed their teeth;
Then the song of the sea was no longer gay.

But peace always followed the storm,
And stilled the ocean's ire.
As gray waves changed to sparkling green.
So our sports rose the higher.

The waves and winds are calling us
To cross that boundless sea
And we'll accept their challenges
Whatever they may be.

In spite of storms that may arise,
We'll weather every gale;
We'll hope and wait until the sun
Makes light our weary sail.

Like white skies on the blue ocean
That fade before our sight.
We must always keep advancing
To reach the barbar of our might.

2A HISTORY

On September 4, 1928, a group of shy little boys and girls wandered into the great City of Fenger. They roamed about hopelessly, surrounded by strange walls and faces. Although not knowing the layout of the building, they were too frightened to ask a noble senior or perhaps even a 1A where the "gym" was, for fear they would be told to take the elevator to the fourth floor. After several weeks we find an entirely different group. These shy little boys and girls were now citizens of the City of Fenger. They were no longer greeted by strange faces, but those of jolly and friendly Fengerites. After two long years of training in typewriting, shorthand, filing, accounting, comptometry, auto mechanics, mechanical drawing, and printing, these students are ready to enter a bigger but hardly, a better world. Because of their industrious and energetic method of doing things, their excellent training and pleasing personalities, they will certainly be a success in the business world.

4B CLASS

The 4B class, although not one of the largest, consists of one of the best groups of students at Fenger. At the first meeting some of the ablest members of their class were elected as officers. They are: Charles Mucha, president; Helge Benson, vice-president; and Frankhild Olson, secretary and treasurer. These students, who have for three years followed the example set by their predecessors, never stopping at hardships, but just plodding on, have reached another milestone in their high school life. The most important and responsible positions in the school are now left open to be filled by capable members of this eager, striving group. They then will be the models, setting examples in scholarship, school spirit, and sportsmanship for the lower classmen to follow. The members of this group have already shown their leadership in the many activities during the previous years. By continuing this work they hope to reflect nothing but honor upon the school.

THE FOUR B'S

"When was the Toleration Act? Who took
That Muzzey from the shelf? No other book
Will do—not Fish nor Beard nor even Elson.
I need more table room to place these cards
To check my outline. Can't you move a little,
Please? Oh, confound that blot upon my freshly Copied page! Now for the Toleration Act.
Five minutes more to learn my history.
Where is my library pass? Ah, here it is.
The Toleration Act—she'll surely ask me
That—it was passed in sixteen forty-nine."

With such effort labor our studious Four B's
While April sun lies gold upon the floor.

Now from the western campus music sounds
For drill; the sunlit walls around return
The echoes like a singing shower of rain;
The baseball field—that too is flecked with sunlight
Beneath the feet of athletes in their fast spring practice.
Also the promenade warms in the radiant noon;
Sweet smells the purple lilac near the entrance;
And there the yellow bell forsythia spreads
The curving shrubbery line against the wall.

Next year we graduate. What would you more?

1st Hour 4B English Class

An energetic, law-abiding group of students coming from Kohn, Perry, Bennett, Burnside, Mt. Vernon, West Pullman, Pullman, Brennen, Rieder, Branch, Van Vlissingen, Fernwood, and Poe now reside in rooms 112, 215, 250, 312, 315, 335, 350 and the lunch room. School activities, that were attended by these members were extremely successful because of the splendid cooperation and excellent behavior rendered by them. Freshmen in their scholarship grades during the semester have proven their willingness and excellent character with a will to win. With open arms, Fenger greets them into the royal ranks of her army striving toward the higher goals of life. May they continue their excellent attitude toward making Fenger even better than it now is.

Russ Fieldhouse

THE FRESHMEN

Two times each year we open Fenger's doors,
And welcome in a large and motley crowd
Of Freshmen who invade, our halls by scores,
And ruffle quietness with laughter loud.

They mock our dignity and diligence,
Set up a rule of gay hilarity,
Disdain acceptance of our eminence,
And give us lessons in frivolity.

Forsaking merriment's pursuit, they will
Acknowledge duty, settle down to work,
That they are meant to fill,
Find that "to do" is better than "to shirk."

They're Fenger's future hope and future pride;
Coming success to them we must confide.

FENGER'S STUDENTS' COUNCIL

For several school generations there has existed in Fenger an organization for the development of civic spirit by affording to the students an outlet for concerted action along lines of their particular interests. As a premium for the able performance of tasks allotted to them from time to time the administration has granted their request for larger fields of action.

For the current year the above offices are filled as follows: Mayor, Gottlieb Schoenwald; City Clerk, Mary Vashik; Fire Marshall, Gerald Seymour; Park Commissioner, James Le Rose; Chief of Police, Russell Stuebing; Sanitary Commissioner, Dean Kline, Athletics Commissioner, Robert Behrens; Faculty Adviser, George F. Dasher.

Heretofore there has been little mention of the real representative body of the Students' Council who faithfully attend the meetings and carry the news of the council's plans to their division rooms. Therefore the staff has decided to devote most of this article to the room representatives rather than to the officers, who receive honor for their work in many other ways as well as in the Courier.

The names of these representatives placed in the order of their division rooms are as follows: Joe Toth, Richard Battaglin, Lambert Kingma, Anthony Lisack, Frank Koch, Mike Saplinske, Bernice Sendzimer, Howard Haight, Ruth Lerry, Anthony Gniewek, Morris Strom, William Galloway, Shirley Ham, Mary Baffo, Irwin Fieldhouse, Eli Von Tour, Ann Kumarowske, Milton Rosenberg, Steven Mutransky, Bennie Gercos, E. Enwall, Jennie Dykstra, Horace Etscheid, Robert Stewart, Agnes Abagoris, Reno Cervo, Willard Eckman, Frankhild Olson, Kenneth Selby, Gene Novak, Richard Piech, Sophie Wolczek, Elizabeth Jackman, Lawrence Drumheller, Eugene Dykstra, Flora Salancy, Jack Fletcher, Dorothy Phillips, Mary Herzog, Emma Kranenburg, Joe De Marco, Ambrose Tatar, Charlotte Bodnar, Felicia Rogers, Anthony Jannlis, Arthur Parquette, Grace Kallianes, Julia Sadulis, Helen Wagner, L. Griffith, Albert Van Santen, Fred Taub, William Rasinkis, Mae King, Lillian Barnett, Mercia Brenne, John Dasher, Brusi Baso, Jeanette Herbisan, Winifred Erickson, Joseph Schmidt, Anthony Gaudio, ——— Jernadis, Paul Beyer, Jerome Johnson, Don Sutchffe, Riley Lindeman, Ralph L. Pickard, Paul Westman, Josephine Edelstein, and John Karnay.

The organization of hall guards, the simplifying of fire drills, and the protecting of the grass plots by putting pipe railings at the entrance walks, are a few of the major accomplishments of the Council this semester. In the clean-up campaign also the Council secured the co-operation of all the public and some of the parochial schools in this district, and they enthusiastically carried out part of the city's program.

PHOREX

The question is often asked, "What rewards do the superior students receive for their high scholastic standing, a result of steady, diligent work?" The answer is twofold: first, that each person with outstanding scholastic records has that inward satisfaction of having completed the required work well; second, that every student with an average of E in his major subjects and no marks lower than G in his minors is automatically a member of the Fenger Honor Society, one of the most reputable organizations of the school. It is made up of students, not only able in their studies, but active in the athletic associations, the band, the glee club, and other school activities. Since knowledge gives light on a subject, the emblem of the club is a lamp, standing for learning and truth. The officers of Fenger's honor society are: John Dasher, President; Josephine Edelstein, Vice-President; Dorothy Morgan, Secretary; Nicholas Maravolo, Treasurer.

The Phorex Honor Society is happy to announce the forming in the Fenger High School of a chapter of the National Honor Society of secondary schools. This society represents the true purposes for which schools were instituted and recognizes those who have attained most nearly the desired end. The purpose of this organization is to create greater zeal for scholarship, to develop leadership and an eagerness to serve, and to better the character of each member. The National Honor Society is to the high school as the Phi Beta Kappa is to the universities. To us it is interesting to know that the National Honor Society, of which there are over 600 chapters in the United States today, was founded by the late Doctor William B. Owen of the Chicago Normal College when he was the principal of the old South Side Academy.

To quote from the Society's constitution: "The emblem of this Society is the keystone and flaming torch. The keystone bears at its base the letters S, L, C, and S, which stand for the four principles of its organization: Scholarship, Leadership, Character, and Service. Scholarship is the power of the mind to dispel ignorance and superstition through scientific investigation of truth; Leadership is the power of personality that blazes the trail for man's upward climb; Character, the composite of all the common virtues, sets the seal of righteousness upon our every endeavor, while Service is the beginning and end of our education, the altar of altruism from which God's blessings to man have been vouchsafed. Thus the keystone symbolizes the high ideals of our Society. The flaming torch is the emblem of our purpose. To bear forward the searching light of truth, to lead that others may follow in the light, to keep burning in our school a high ambition for the enduring values of life, and to serve, these purposes are symbolized in the torch."

The Phorex Honor Society extends a hearty welcome to this new chapter of the National Honor Society.

NEWS STAFF

"That story is for the sport page; give it to me," commanded the irate sports editor.

"I'll have you know it was promised to the third page, and that's where it goes," answered the determined third page chief.

"Now, people, what's the trouble? What? You're arguing about whose story that is. Well, if you will look a little closer, you will find that there are two stories on the copy: one for the sport page and one for the third page." With this, Miss Taylor, for it was, indeed, she, answered a call for help from the News Editor. The two journalists satisfied with the compromise, renewed their serious task of making up the Fenger News so that the students may have a lively, up-to-the-minute paper to read Thursday morning.

It may seem strange that such violent outbursts are permitted, but as one of the staff remarked, "The makers of the United States Constitution argued every point that was put in it; and look what a perfect paper they put out." In their endeavor to put out a perfect paper, everyone's viewpoint is considered, and the results are shown in the steady improvements in the News stories and features.

The first page, given over to important news, is in the charge of Margaret Rice, News Editor, and Marian Breen, who takes care of the make-up work.

Features, Personals, Editorials, and Jokes make up most of the second page. "The Three Docs," those humorous physicians, who with their "Pill Box" dispell all of the fears of Measles, Chicken Pox, Civics, Chemistry, and other diseases, have, in their light-hearted sallies, captured the fancy of the News readers.

Josephine Edelstein makes the third page interesting with her accounts of girls' athletics; while Albert Saxe, sports editor, sees that snappy, interesting sport material make up the fourth page.

Keeping the News on a paying basis is the work of Agnes Alexander, Theresa Schmidt, and Sidney Greenberg, who are the heads of the business departments.

With the graduation of Ruth Larson, literary editor; Alma Anderson, editorials; Marion Schuh, publicity manager; Theresa Schmidt, advertising manager; Lois Zwart, personals and exchanges; and Albert Saxe, sports editor, the staff loses some of its best members. However, the Journalism class, larger this term than ever before, promises many excellent writers to fill the vacancies left by these graduates.

THE BOYS' GLEE CLUB

Under the excellent supervision of Mr. Herbert Knight, assisted by President Norman Wilhelmsen, Vice-President Russell Lloyd, and Secretary-Treasurer Harry Budka, the Boy's Glee Club began this semester with a very colorful assembly.

The Boy's Glee Club at the present time and for some past few weeks have been devoting their time and attention primarily to choral technique. The Boys have been practicing with this chief end in view, but they also were engaged in practicing part songs written especially for High School Boys' Glee Clubs.

Fenger is fortunate in having many voices as material; and while the reading of the clubs' members is not equal in quality to its singing material, the promise for the future is bright.

These noteworthy notes have a story to tell
Of a group in our school who have served us well;
The first one is F—; that's for Fenger, you see;
The second is G which stands for Glee;
The third one is C—with a rub-a-dub-dub—
Together they say "Fenger Glee Club."

THE GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

This semester the Girls' Glee Club, through the splendid directorship of Mrs. Hazel Steinfeldt, with the assistance of President Marcella Vanderbilt, Secretary Jean Smith, and Treasurer Ethel Zwiers, has been a very active body.

During the latter part of this semester the girls have been learning to sing a cappella. The Girls' Glee Club has made itself well known by singing in the Friday assemblies and by a radio program over WBBM in May.

Camegie

R. O. T. C.

The R. O. T. C. organized for the purpose of qualifying selected students for appointments as reserve officers, offers the greatest opportunity for both military and physical training. The Chicago branch consists of twenty-one units, of which Fenger is a part. There are 150 boys in the R. O. T. C. and Band in the Fenger unit, which is ably manned by Sergeant Christofferson, who has chosen those, as officers who have, by faithful service and through acquiring the art of command, reached the highest ranks in the service. The best marksmen of the unit compose the rifle team which competes in meets with other schools.

Camp Roosevelt, located just north of Chicago on the shores of Lake Michigan, offers a splendid opportunity for boys who love the outdoor life and military work. The camp is conducted by Major Frank L. Beals, its originator. Here in addition to military training, the boys have the time of their lives swimming, boating, camping, horseback riding, and partaking in all athletics.

SOCIAL

THE 4B INITIATION PARTY

In keeping with the traditional spirit, the 4B's with trembling hearts and shattered nerves entered the small auditorium Friday, March 14, to be initiated into the high order of Seniorhood. Not only by their intense nervousness were they easily distinguished from the most honorable 4A's, but also by their wearing of the green in the form of bow-ties and hair-ribbons. The 4A's conducted themselves with dignified composure, amused indifference, and a wee bit of benevolent tolerance.

A solemn stillness fell upon these two very distinct bodies assembled, when Wilbur Radcliffe played a syncopated trombone solo. Following this Abe Mer, the 4A Class President, delivered his address of welcome to the incoming seniors. Charles Mucha, the 4B Class President, answered Abe's speech with many witty remarks, saying that without the 4B's there would be no 4A's. This remark lowered the aloofness of the 4A's a trifle at least, and the shivering 4B's regained some of their lost self-confidence. The quintet, composed of Russell Lloyd, Leo Coe, Norman Wilhemsen, Herbert Goebig, and Wilbur Radcliffe, were heartily applauded after singing three delightful numbers, including "How Do You Do?" "The History of a Flivver," and "Proposing to a Girl," in which Leo Coe's unusually skillful giggle drew forth peals of laughter from the amused audience. Thereupon Russell Stuebing questioned the "soon-to-be seniors" to test their intelligence.

Then—oh! moment of moments for the once again terrified 4B's!—came the initiation! The 4B officers were called to the stage, took the oath, and performed the tasks required of them for entering the "noble senior" ranks. After the senior song, everyone marched joyously into the girls' gym, where delicious refreshments were served and dancing enjoyed. When the strains of the Bluebird Serenaders died out, all proceeded homeward remarking that they had had a marvelous time.

4B RETURN PARTY

For the Farmers' Frolic on May 5th there gathered seniors about 300 strong in the small auditorium at 2 P. M. There the program included old time songs accompanied by the fiddle players and a most amusing rural playlet. Then, amid many hearty laughs, the guests in a joyful throng flocked to the girls' gym where tempting refreshments were eagerly consumed, consisting of pink lemonade and small iced cakes. Dancing followed to the jazz refrains of our Bluebird Serenaders. Some even ventured to participate in barn dances and jigs.

The girls were most picturesque in their tub frocks of pastel colors and huge hair-ribbons or sun-bonnets. The boys in their overalls, hayseed hats, and red bandanas represented the rustic personality and awkward appearance very effectively. Soon after the sounding of four "cow bells" each farm lad and farm maid departed for his or her respective home site. Some in taking leave mounted old gray mares (alias, flivvers), others less fortunate journeyed on shanks' mares.

SENIOR PROM

In the opinion of superstitious people the day Friday is unlucky and Friday the thirteenth is most unlucky and is to be utterly feared. However, the seniors defied all these superstitions by having their prom on the very evening of this day in the month of June, 1930. And it surely turned out to be a most successful "night of nights," too!

In the boys' gym was an air of festivity, decorated in orchid and white festoons and potted ferns. Fenger students and alumni approached in happy throng soon after 8:30 P. M. During the Grand March each participant experienced a thrill as he circled the gym among school chums and old acquaintances. Each partner gracefully glided to and fro to the enchanting strains of the melodious dance orchestra; and the girls' gowns displayed a brilliant rainbow. The moonlight waltzes were delightful. Truly it was with much regret that the pleased attendants disbanded, like good Cinderellas, a few minutes to midnight, but outside the charm of a balmy June night welcomed them.

GIRLS' G. A. A. PROGRAM

This is a "big" assembly in which the school student body is required to sit up and take notice of the girls' talents as brought out by the organization of the G. A. A. Songs of the "Dear Old G. A. A.," and "I Want to Be a Fenger Girl" were sung by our girls. School letters, the posture medal, and the silver cup were awarded to the winners. An interesting speech was given by Dr. Yaeros in honor of our girls' wonderful activities and achievements.

2A GRADUATION PARTY

Over one hundred 2A graduates from division rooms 113, 111, and the "overflow" from 116 gathered in the social room at two o'clock P. M., May 16, 1930, for their last Fenger frolic of the school year. A most enjoyable and varied program was presented, including original stunts, musical offerings, and humorous readings. The room decorations were artistically carried out in the class colors. A tempting repast was served by the refreshment committee. Afterwards dancing became the main form of recreation until the 3:30 bell pealed forth the signal for departure.

GYM INSTRUCTORS FETE G. A. A. OFFICERS

What a wonderful time the G. A. A. officers enjoyed Saturday, March 15, when, in appreciation of their efforts during the recent G. A. A. membership, they were entertained at luncheon at the Illinois Women's Athletic Club. The girls met downtown at Marshall Field's, where they were joined by Mrs. Jessie Anderson, Mrs. Norma Schroeder, and Miss Marie Kuglin, as Miss Mae Froom was ill. Afterwards the entire party went to see Queenie Smith in "The Street Singer" at the Apollo Theatre. The girls vow that they shall never forget the jolly fun they had at both events.

JUNIOR HIGH WELCOME PARTY

As the Junior High students do not enter Fenger's ranks until their Sophomore year, they were given a welcome party on April 15, in the social room, eighth and ninth hours. Rooms 112, 303, 323, and 333 were present. An interesting program consisted of clever stunts given by each room, pantomimes, dialogues, and original musical selections. Then everyone formed in a long line to get his serving of ice cream and cookies. After a period of general conversation and "devouring of the goodies," group games and dancing to piano accompaniment were enjoyed.

FRESHMAN PARTIES

We have so many little important people, the 1B Freshmen, among our school ranks, that it was necessary to give three separate parties for them.

On Tuesday, March 18, rooms 312, 315, and 250 were represented in the social room. Their program was most interesting and was supplied by their own talent. Room 312 presented a most thrilling and unusual photo-play, called "Wild Nell," in which Sitting Bull, Lady Ver de Ver, the Medicine Woman, Wild Nell (the heroine) and Handsome Harry (the Hero) were characterized to perfection. The girls of room 250 participated in a gypsy song and dance. Hazel Leegwater and Lucille Berquist, with Dorothy Tissing accompanying at the piano, gave an Irish jig in honor of St. Patrick. Room 315 exhibited ability in acting out popular advertisements. As the last number, Donald Sutcliffe sang "Danny Boy." Then cookies and ice-cream were served. After playing games and dancing, everyone journeyed homeward.

On Wednesday, March 19, rooms 215, 335, and 350 shared in the fun. Their program was so amusing, including a cunning shadow play of an operation, a snake guessing contest, "Danny Boy" by Don Sutcliffe, Irish jig by Hazel Leewater and Lucille Berguist, a clever "Golf Lesson," and a humorous presentation of "Crossing the Railroad Track." Eats and dancing likewise came next on the bill.

On Thursday, March 20, 212, and the bunch from the lunch room had their party with "Wild Nell of the Plains," reproduced by 312, a snappy clog dance by Michael Fundukian, a pleasing "Daily News Band," a brilliant act of "Reducing," and the Irish jig. Then all joined in on the ice-cream and cake round. Game playing and dancing followed. Truly each party was a remarkable success and well enjoyed.

ASSEMBLIES

Assemblies this semester have been most interesting, appropriate, and educational. They have to a large extent consisted of student talent and for this, proved more enjoyable.

MARCH 7 ASSEMBLY

"Every boy who goes out for a team is gaining a great benefit for himself," said Basketball Coach Nels Norgren, of the University of Chicago, and guest of honor at the assembly of March 7. Coach Norgren spoke on Competitive Sport in High School, a talk which was of special benefit to boys. Ten members of the basketball teams had the privilege of receiving the letters they earned last semester from Coach Norgren. Jerry Greek, captain of the heavyweight team, and Gottlieb Schoenwald, captain of the lightweight team, gave impromptu speeches of acknowledgment. Fenger's skating team, which won one leg of a silver cup in an event against Pullman Tech at the February skating meet, presented the cup to Principal Schacht. Cheers were given, and selections played by the Bluebird Sereaders.

ILLINOIS BELL TELEPHONE ASSEMBLY

A highly instructive assembly was presented March 28 by the Illinois Bell Telephone Company. It consisted of three films, starting away back in the nineteenth century and working up to the present day. The first film depicted the time when the receiver and transmitter were combined. The second film, entitled, "Hello, Europe," pictured telephone offices in France, England, Sweden, Denmark, and Holland. In the third film were displayed the two hundred and twenty-nine parts of the telephone, and the putting together of them. The Social Orchestra gave a few numbers, also.

LIBRARY PROGRAM

The assembly of April 4, featuring the third birthday of the library, was under the supervision of Miss Etta Fluke, librarian. The speakers, William Geddes and Wanda Bogowicz, spoke on the services and needs of the library. A violin duet of Mendelssohn's Spring Song, numbers by the school band, and a trio selection supplied the entertainment. Gottlieb Schoenwald was in charge of the program.

ARBOR DAY

Fenger's Science Department presented our annual Arbor Day Assembly, April 17, under the direction of Mrs. Diamond, Zoology teacher. Members of the Biology Club gave interesting speeches on the importance and plans of our Arbor Day. An important part of the program was an illustrated talk on wild flowers by a speaker from the Field Museum of Chicago.

MEMORIAL DAY

The Memorial Day Assembly had much the same spirit and thrill as we have experienced from our earliest grammar school days. The flag raising was under the supervision of Fenger's R. O. T. C. unit. An able speaker was obtained from the American Legion. Then, of course, the old Civil War veterans made their inspiring appearance greeted by march numbers from the school Band.

Tune of "Love Me"

I'm so gay, happy day, we're here
 In the Gym, full of vim, Bluebirds
 Just by the touch of your wand
 Rendering music profound
 Friday, ev'ry way, Bluebirds
 Ease our cares, unaware, Bluebirds
 T'you I wish, only this, that you may be Happy, joyful Bluebirds.

SOCIAL ORCHESTRA

"Happy Days Are Here Again" when Fenger's harmonious social orchestra strikes up the snappy tunes of our latest favorite songs. Budka is the director and the tickler of the ivories, whose middle name certainly is "keen jazz." Ferrini displays such talent with his saxophone that we cannot keep our feet still. The other members who aid in producing these beautiful, inspiring dance melodies are Radcliffe, trombone; Stumpf, trombone; Lloyd, trumpet; Gabel, sousaphone; and La Frano, without whose drumming our glorious Bluebird Serenaders simply could not soar.

Not only for social hour every Friday afternoon do our faithful "Melody Kings" play, but also for class parties and assembly programs. They are always willing and glad to furnish entertainment. So let's be proud of our orchestra boys and give them our coöperation in return for the enjoyment we derive from their talents!

SOCIAL HOUR

Every Friday afternoon from 2 to 3:30 o'clock many Fenger students assemble in the Girls' Gym to forget their daily intellectual grinds, personal troubles, and duties at Social Hour and to dance away to the delightful melodies of the Blue Bird Serenaders. The "penny march," which on days of importance becomes the "nickel march," is one event in which every dancer and side-liner smilingly participates. Very often a distinguished alumnus visits his Alma Mater and joins this happy throng. We are glad for the privilege of attending these enjoyable social hours, for here many high school acquaintances are formed, and long-to-be-remembered pleasures are experienced.

B. A. A.

"He was modest, unselfish and unassuming, did not care for fulsome praise, and was a fine sportsman; very generous in his comments of others. He never whined or complained; if he got licked he accepted it and gave the other fellow due credit. He never once had an alibi." These few words of praise by Coach Stagg of the University of Chicago, on the passing of Walter Eckersall a few months ago, have become the ideal and motto of Fenger's B. A. A. If a student lives up to these characteristics in high school athletics, they usually carry over into life, as the principles of sportsmanship may be used to advantage in any business as well as in athletics. To instill the qualities of Mr. Eckersall into every boy at Fenger, is the aim of the Boys' Athletic Association in promoting the intra-mural games and tournaments.

INTRAMURAL VOLLEY BALL

In the freshman division, Room 330 walked away with the championship, wining all of their games by topheavy scores. Room 314 was second best of the freshies, losing only to 330.

Led by Ragnar Flesvig, Room 201 came through victorious in the sophomore division, although the going was a little rougher. The runners up were Room 311.

The senior division, composed of third and fourth year rooms, was the scene of much excitement and many close scores. After a series of hard fought games, it was up to 211 and 233 to fight it out for first honors. After a thrilling game, which went five minutes overtime, Room 211 came out on top by three points giving them their second championship of this year. Room 211 was represented by Helge Benson, Harold Cheffer, Eugene Dykstra, Robert Jamie, Charles Mucha, Arthur Nyberg, and Eugene O'Neil.

SWIMMING

Splash! and the last Spartan swimmer was off. Upon emerging from his dive simultaneously with one other swimmer, his chief opponent, he set off towards the goal. Now, he was abreast his rival. They were swimming desperately. Their arms churned the water like propellers as they neared the goal. The Spartan spirit prevailing to the last, Fenger's man gave a final burst of speed and slapped his hand on the end of the pole a fraction of a second before his opponent. Fenger had come into her own. The entire season's record is blemished by but one defeat, the team having won two dual meets and one triple meet to make this semester the most successful the Spartan swimmers have ever had. Although the teams were both remarkably well balanced, Frank Laucius, Charles Mucha, and Tony Klein were the most consistent point gatherers for the seniors, while Nicholas Novick, Stanley Potpora and John Drasites led the Juniors.

TRACK

Winding up the indoor season by placing fourth in the city track meet at Bartlett "Gym" with 11 1/3 points, the Spartan trackmen have an exceptionally fine record. Largely due to the excellent efforts of Ragnar Flesvig, who scored all of the points in the city event, Fenger placed higher this year than ever before. As the Courier went to press, the indoor season had been finished, and the outdoor season was getting quickly under way.

The members of the team who have performed most consistently are: Russell Stanley, Nick Maravalo, Charles Ridell, Horace Etscheid, Russell Stuebing, Russell Coe, John Pizzato, Geno Ossello, Edward Ulrich, Robert Kahn, Clarence Bayne, Eugene Ely, Elveno Ossello, John Balerszis, Ragnar Flesvig and Miller.

BASKETBALL

Fenger's Basketeers started the season with hopes of a good deal of success. The teams sustained this hope by enjoying a very satisfactory practice season. As the regular league games started hard luck seemed to stalk the Spartans. They lost several games that should have been easy Fenger victories, by one and two point margins. Even with Lady Luck against them the Heavies finished in third and the Lights in fourth place. Both teams found their stride as the season ended, however, and soundly trounced our dearest rival, Pullman Tech in two games.

For the Lights, Captain Gottlieb Schoenwald, Abe Mer, Charles Resan, Robert Sloan, Kenneth Selby, and Herry Verbeek carried the bulk of the playing, while Captain Gerald Greek, William Matiasovic, Helge Benson, Arthur Swanson, and Elmer Seyffert were the mainstays of the Heavies.

WRESTLING AND BASEBALL

A new sport was added to the long list this semester—that of wrestling. A newcomer among the established sports, this team has fast become popular among the students. As the Courier went to press, the wrestlers were entered in a round robin with Hyde Park, Calumet, and Morgan Park to decide the South Side championship. While the wrestling team was practicing for the three meets, one hundred twenty-five promising rookies turned out for the baseball team. With only four members of last year's South Section champs back for the campaign, Coach Knight had the difficult task of developing a team to uphold the reputation established last year. Practice games had been scheduled with the strong Lane, Hammond, and Crane Tech nines in order that the team could get in shape for the difficult task of defending the South Section title, which the 1929 players captured after a wonderful season.

100% G. A. A. 100%

This perfect membership, an honor held by no other school in Chicago, was accomplished by the hard work of Mary Fisher, President; Elsie Johnson, Vice-President; Laurretta Kotwicki, Secretary; Marion Shirran, Treasurer. With the ever ready help of Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Schroeder, and Miss Froom, the G. A. A. will attain even greater prominence. The G. A. A. has aroused a feeling of sportsmanship and leadership and has brought forth girls with better ability in athletics.

Amid the enthusiastic cheers in the girls' gym every ninth hour, a volleyball is seen being tossed back and forth over a net. Sometimes it is in possession of a screeching group of girls who breathlessly jump for the ball and send it sailing back to the frantically fighting opponent. The volunteer help of some girls to referee games has made it possible to have teams play on all courts at one time.

With the good team work of the girls of Room 213 they won against Room 230 for championship of the Senior Division, and Room — won against Room — for the Junior Championship.

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

The Gold Medal, which is presented to the Fenger girl having the best posture, was given to Louise Worth. Of the many contestants the others that came in second, third and fourth are respectively — Beverly Mastenbrook, Johanna Essenberg, and Regina Enzbigiel.

The Letter Girls' Club, organized in 1929, increases its membership every semester, showing that Fenger is producing more girls of athletic ability. The proud wearers of the letter "F" are Marion Badgley, Stella Derkacy, Erma Ergo, Johanna Essenberg, Dorothy Morgan, Dorothy Phillips, Norma Pollo, Joan Surnvic, Irene Tananewicz, Mary Vashik, and Constance Walker, and the girls that received a chevron besides the letter are Laurretta Kotwicki, Marion Shirran, and Myra Thompson. In this honorable organization the officers are—Dorothy Phillips, president; Johanna Essenberg, secretary and treasurer; and Miss Froom is their enthusiastic sponsor. At theatre parties, splash parties, and bowling parties, these lucky girls have enjoyed themselves; they have also proved to be helpful by sponsoring hikes after school.

Swimming has proved to be a popular sport among the girls, because many have received the Frog, Mermaid, or Red Cross emblem. The life guard plan, girls having passed the Junior Life Saving test volunteer to be life guards, was carried out this term also, because of the help it had been to the swimming classes last semester.

FENGER FORUM

Although we are in the year 1930 A. D. and live on the new continent of America, the Fenger Forum is trying very hard to have an atmosphere of Rome in its days of greatness pervade at their meetings. Therefore, Latin predominates in all the programs. Each member is given a Latin name, and when Roman games are played, each person uses his title. Latin conundrums are a special delight. Occasionally, slides of Roman buildings and temples are shown. In order to make the programs educational as well as amusing, interesting talks are given by students about Roman life. At the close of last term, a luncheon was given when birthday cakes were served to commemorate the 2000th anniversary of Virgil's birth.

Mrs. Vera Wertheim is the competent faculty adviser of the club. Jane Alexander was elected First Consul (president); Dorothy Tallman is Second Consul (vice-president); while Marie Erickson acts as praetor, or secretary, as we would say.

GERMAN CLUB

Lovely German song books were purchased by the German Club to use during their meetings. For several months, it had been the intention of the organization to buy these books, but their hopes had not been realized until recently. Now so much more pleasure can be derived from their monthly meetings. To have a program each meeting pertaining to Germany, its ways, customs, and music is the endeavor of the program committee. In April a play called "Wie Man Sich Bildet" or "How to Improve One's Self" was given by some of the members.

As usual, the members again showed their intuition and good judgment in selecting their officers. The duty of Phyllis Dahms, president, is to preside over the meeting; Abe Mer holds the position of vice-president; and Helen Bleadon acts as secretary-treasurer. Reporting all the doings of the club to the News is the task of Sophie Bartus, club reporter. Miss Hildegard Meisekothen is the competent sponsor of the organization.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

According to the Constitution of the Home Economics Club, the purpose of the organization is: (1) to stimulate interest in the cooking and sewing departments; (2) to unify the work of both departments; (3) to acquaint parents and school with the departments; and (4) to foster a spirit of coöperation among the students. To steer this purposeful society, the members have elected Nelle Chizevsky, Isabel Jacobs, and Stephanie Haus to serve as president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer respectively. The two able sponsors are Misses Lena Crum and Elsie Parson. As only those with an average of G or better may join, the members are all honor students. Gold pins may be earned by taking part in the various activities of the Club. Last year the girls made baby clothes which they sent to the Roseland Hospital where they were gladly received. At the end of the term, a picnic was given by this group, a well-deserved close to an active semester.

BIOLOGY CLUB

For the purpose of combining work with play and bringing the botany and zoology students together in a social way, the Biology Club was organized. During the meetings, held eighth hour the first Friday of each month, discussions are held of the various problems, concerning these two subjects, which confront the students every day. Occasionally noted people speak at the programs about these questions which are so vital to the energetic members. The meetings are always very amusing and interesting and are eagerly awaited each month by the students. A St. Patrick's Day party was given Friday, March 14, and a "good time was had by all." As only the students who have an average of G or better are allowed to join, this organization consists of the clever ones from each class. Sponsoring this intelligent group of Fengerites are Mrs. Norma Diamond and Miss Dorothy Huebner. Those elected as officers are Alina Kieradlo, president; Dorothy Thullen, vice-president; Wilma Drucker, secretary; and Patricia Dobbins, treasurer.

STAMP CLUB

Grindelwald and Brandenburg,
Savanah and Oolacamund,
Connemara and London Town,
Bombay and the Shanghai Bund.

This verse is taken from the poem, "The Rhyme of the Restless Rover," which appeared in the Chicago Tribune last January. A world map, showing obscure cities mentioned in this poem, is being compiled by the Stamp Club under the able direction of Mr. Schacht. By each city a stamp coming from that section, is placed. This will, of course, require lots of time and energy, but the members are very enthusiastic over the project. During the meetings the members study the water marks and perforations of stamps. One does not realize how much knowledge can be derived from a technical study of these seemingly trivial items. As their officers, the members elected Waldemar Hrabinske to be president; John Dasher, vice-president; Raymond Roberts, secretary; and Kenneth Borger, treasurer.

CHESS AND CHECKER CLUB

"Your move."

"Now, I have you in a tight place!"

Such are the bits of conversation one hears upon entering room 316, Tuesday, the eighth hour. Energetic, interested students are competing with one another, and occasionally Miss Lois Conner and Miss Charlotte Fowler, the able sponsors of the Chess and Checker Club, interrupt to give some new point of the game to those just learning. In order to compete with other schools, two teams have been formed, one a Chess, and the other a Checker team. To represent Fenger these teams were selected in an elimination contest held among the members. Just as the members show their wisdom in selecting these delightful games as their pastime, so do they show it in selecting their officers. John Dasher is the president, while the position of vice-president is held by Waldemar Hrabinske. Taking the minutes is the task of Irving Escarraz, secretary, and Rudolph Hrometz acts as treasurer.

FENGER AERO CLUB

Under the capable supervision of Mr. Julian Sykes, the faculty adviser, and able leadership of the officers who are Harold Roberts, president; Guido Frachey, vice-president; Lyle La Croix, secretary; and Edward Mikal, treasurer, the Fenger Aero Club has again completed a successful semester.

The great project before the club this term was the model airport which the members have constructed on a scale of thirty-three feet to one inch. The airport was built in four sections; and when put together, it measured eleven feet long and ten feet wide.

Many sight-seeing trips have been made by the boys this semester. One of these was the visit to the Curtis Airport at Glenview on Sunday, March 23. Here the boys saw many things of value to them in their chosen work.

Fenger has great hopes for these aviators-to-be. And why shouldn't it have, for have not the boys a wonderful future before them? Magnificent opportunities await you, boy; go to it!

HI-Y

Last semester under the supervision of Mr. Leo Hopkins, the Hi-Y sponsored a courtesy campaign. Billboards were placed in the halls and foyers. The campaign reached its climax with an assembly on Friday, December 13. The Hi-Y now consists of twelve senior and ten junior members under the leadership of Mr. Smither and Mr. Aiken. Members are voted in by a committee of the officers and faculty adviser. Several parties were given by the Hi-Y during the past semester: two by the Juniors, one by the Seniors, and one joint party. Meetings are scheduled for the second and fourth Monday of each month at the 111th St. Y. M. C. A. For the Hi-Y members there is a special two or three dollar membership, which grants the privileges of the Y. M. C. A. on Monday nights. Following the meetings a spirited basketball game and swim takes place. In the future the Hi-Y will do its best to surpass previous Hi-Y's in leadership, sportsmanship and in promoting social activities.

MATHEMATICS CLUB

The head of a fish is nine inches long; the tail is as long as the head and one-half the body; and the body is as long as the head and tail. What is the length of the fish?

Arrange the figures 1 to 9, inclusive, in a magic square so as to count 15 in every straight line.

Some brain teasers, eh? Can you figure them out? If you can, you had better join the Mathematics Club because they want some more valuable members. In case you don't know, this Club meets every Wednesday, the eighth hour in Room 233. (The members are trying to maintain Wednesday for the official meeting day of this organization.) At these meetings problems and impromptu puzzles are solved, after which short programs are usually given. With Miss Lillian E. Kurtz as faculty adviser, and Robert Sloan, John Dasher, and Alina Kieradlo as president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer, respectively, it is no wonder that the Mathematics Club is such a success.

FRENCH CLUB

Although the French Club has just been organized this semester, there are already twenty-seven active members. The programs at the meetings of the society are given by the various members in the forms of playlets, dramas, and dialogues in French. The capable faculty adviser is Miss Grace Murray. Donald Miller was chosen by these active people to be the president. Elves Bakkers is vice-president; Jacques Boghossian acts as secretary; while Augusta Machinskas is treasurer.

FEN-RAD

Several semesters ago a Fen-Rad club existed at Fenger, but somehow or other, it was gradually given up. Now the Club is re-organized with the same faculty adviser, Mr. George Dasher. At the meetings a very thorough study is undertaken of the radio in all its complicated details, both in construction and theory. As the members are all scientifically inclined and keenly interested in this comparatively new invention for world communication, the meetings are always well-attended. To lead their organization, the members have elected Horace Etscheid, Albert Petraitis, and Edward Ulrich to be president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer, respectively. The other members are: Russell Christensen, Einar Ennall, Irving Escarraz, Clarence Frolin, John Grace, Merrit Gravander, Edward Krall, Ray Lowder, Steven Mizgata, Robert Moore, Edward Mulka, Vernon Noren, Delmar Peterson, George Reid, Paul Roberts, Andrew Rozgoniji, Robert Sloan, and Charles Wintercorn.

DRAMA CLUB

Almost everyone has read the story of "Daddy Long Legs," written by Jean Webster. Judy, the lonesome little girl in the orphan asylum, who builds air castles about a man she calls Daddy Long Legs who, in reality, is a wealthy citizen called Jervis Pendleton, will long be remembered by those who have read this thrilling tale. All this was unfolded very humorously in a four-act comedy by the Drama Class, Thursday, April 10, with the assistance of the Social Orchestra and under the excellent leadership of Miss Amy Lobstein. To play the part of Judy was the task assigned to Helen Worth, while Richard Hoffman acted as Jervis Pendleton. The other leading members of the cast and their parts were Florence Fox as Sally; Margaret Rydelius, Julia; Paul Tunkis, Jimmy; Marion Goodman, Miss Pritchard; Stephanie Haus, Mrs. Pendleton; Harold Rollins, Mr. Wykoff; Phyllis Dahms, Mrs. Lipitt; and Margaret Barker, Mrs. Semple. The play was an all-student production, even the business, setting, and costuming being taken care of by various committees.

SPANISH CLUB

Mrs. Myra A. Whitworth is the efficient sponsor of this tremendously large club. Helping Paul Westman, the president, is the Executive Committee, whose members are Marian Shirran, Mary Fisher, Martha Hawkinson, Jane Alexander, Embert Almcrantz, Harold Blom, Roy Sandstrom, Leonard Evans and Gladys Larsen, the secretary.

ITALIAN CLUB

In an endeavor to get an idea of the literature and culture of Italy in an informal and pleasant way, the Italian Club was organized under the excellent leadership of Miss Congetta Change. Evelyn Zanon, Thea Pierotti, Evelyn Vandenberg, and Angeline Vallortigara were elected president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, by the members who are Frances Franco, Irene Gasperini, Lola Guilianetti, Ida Kubilis, Jeanette Nita, Gilbert Pope, Gabriel Petrone, Angeline Pittacora, Adeline Sciana, Solicka Tumiat, Lillian Zambon, and Roviario Zuma.

ART CLUB

Very interesting trips to the Field Museum, Art Institute, and places of scenic beauty have been made by the new Art Club this semester. On some of these trips, the members made sketches and took snapshots of the landscapes and objects of beauty which they had viewed.

With Miss Marlin as sponsor, and Ruth Kartzke, Frank Sysens, and Albert Bateman as president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer, respectively, the Club has a good chance of becoming one of Fenger's most popular organizations.

HARMONY CLUB

At the time of going to press, the problem before the Harmony Club is that of the operetta which the members have been diligently composing for several months. The work has progressed so well that the Club hopes to produce it this spring. Under the capable supervision of Miss Alice Eddy, the entire operetta—songs and plot—is being done by the members.

Leading this talented group are Augusta Machenskaskas, president; Helen Keller, vice-president; and Elda Cianaini, secretary-treasurer.

THE VOICE OF THE ALUMNI

Robert Stuebing

University of Minnesota

"If anyone wants a school full of that intense loyalty and thrill of 'belongin,' called spirit, there's no place like Minnesota. However, a Fengerite should be welcome anywhere, so here's best of luck to the Class of '30 in whatever they undertake after leaving Fenger."

Mildred Coe

University of Illinois

"In my short experience at a university I've learned to appreciate high school days more than ever before. I only wish I'd taken advantage of the wonderful opportunity of obtaining a better foundation. In other words—a bit of advice. Accept all that Fenger offers in the line of learning and activities, and then come to Illinois to uphold Fenger's standards."

Vito Abazoris

Armour

"I am finishing my junior year at the Armour Institute of Technology in the Mechanical Engineering Course. I will never forget the wonderful preparation I received at Fenger."

"Best of luck to Fenger and all the success in the world to the 1930 Annual."

Evelyn Forsen

Secretary

"I graduated from Crane Junior College in February '30 and I am now working. I enjoyed going to college very much."

Harold Johnson

University of Chicago

"Hi, everybody. I sure miss the good times I had and the hard work they gave at the only high school there is; but I find them closely seconded at the only college."

Irma Higgins

Roseland Community Hospital

"I don't see how I ever stayed away from nursing as long as I did. It certainly is a wonderful profession."

"I just want to say 'hello' to my old friends at Fenger and hope that they are having as good a time as I am."

Alphonse Stitils

Shedd Aquarium

"This work reminds me very much of Fenger. I used to swim for Fenger and now I swim for the fish."

Harriet Vanderbilt

Normal

"Normal is a fine school and I like it immensely. I'm taking the regular Elementary Teacher's Course."

"I sincerely hope that the class of June, 1930, is very successful in all of its undertakings."

William Vellenga

Trook's Business College

"Greetings—"

"On behalf of the February Class of 1930, I extend my sincerest congratulations upon your struggling through a semester without our class."

Bernice Wadman

Secretary

"I send my greetings to Fenger High and congratulate the Courier Staff on its achievement."

Elmer Christell

Draftsman

"It certainly is wonderful to be able to say that I learned how to make plans at Fenger. The G. W. Electric Specialty Company can't get along without me."

"Hoping that the class of June '30 will receive many honors and much success, I remain a faithful Alumnus."

Gertrude Habenstein

Secretary

"I have just started in a new position at Sherwin Williams as secretary to the buyer of the plant. I like it very much because it is such a nice clean game. It reminds me all the time of Clean-Up Week at its Championship peak."

James White

Brown University

"I like it here at Brown University very much. The homework reminds me of the hard work we received at Fenger."

"I sincerely hope that your Courier will be a great success. I will be anxious to see it."

Bernice Larson

Secretary

"If you would like to do some real work, just try to be a good secretary.

"I hope you have lots of luck with your Courier."

George Hillstrom

University of Illinois

"I was very glad to learn that I could help you. Yes—I'm a staunch member of the Illini now and I like it very much."

Josephine Conley

University of Chicago

"I am working as a secretary in the Board of Vocational Guidance and the Placement Bureau. It is supervised by the University of Chicago. If you want to do some interesting work, just try this."

Joseph Cosgrove

Swift & Company

"Working at a meat packing concern reminds me of the old days at Fenger when we tried to pack into the Assembly Hall."

Ruth Edwards

University of Ohio

"Hello, everybody—I feel so old and decrepit whenever it occurs to me that I'm an alumna, but I still have enough life to wish the best luck in the world to this year's graduating class, and I'm hoping to see a lot of you up here at school next September."

Leonard Means

Pullman Bank

"I like to work at the bank very much. I only wish that all the money I see and handle was mine.

"Each evening I attend night school at Northwestern University."

Evelyn Bladholm

Fine Arts

"I am studying dress designing at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts. Lots of luck with your Courier."

Byron Nelson

University of Illinois

"Fenger is hard to forget. If you want to reap the same old spirit, go to Illinois."

Thelma Berg

North Park College

"I'm enjoying my work at North Park immensely. We have to work as hard as in any other school, but all our good times pay up for our hard work."

Guy Bateman

University of Iowa

"I sincerely wish the class of June 1930 all the success in the world. To those who follow in their footsteps, let me say, 'Seize firmly upon the all-to-swiftly-vanishing school days which remain to you, and prepare to leave your Alma Mater with your head up; and a proud sense of work well done.'"

Bertha Aserson

Starrett

"Of course all girls' schools have their bad points, but nevertheless we have a good time at Starrett. Congratulations to this year's Courier Staff."

Louis Olesker

Business

"Hello, everybody! Although I have a wonderful place to work and am a member of the J. P. I.'s basketball team, I wish I were back with you at Fenger. Lots of luck to the class of 1930."

Elizabeth Van De Roovaart

Wheaton College

"I consider Wheaton a fine college, with an excellent faculty. I have enjoyed the year very much."

Lewis Sprietsma

Western Union

"I was glad to hear from a Fengerite, I like it here very much; the work is easy. Lots of success with your Courier, I remain a Western Unionist."

Roxana Breen

University of Chicago

"I'm just recuperating from the two hour exams that we had to take the other day. Stiff? Oh my!

"I sincerely hope that you make a lot of money on your Couriers."

Jack Manning

Texas

"It seems good to be back at Fenger, if it's only in the pages of the annual. I appreciate knowing, one thousand miles from my school, that you Fengerites still remember those who have graduated. Best of luck to Fenger and all the success in the world to the 1930 Annual."

JUST PICTURE ME

"Well, well, well, so this is to be your senior picture, is it? Just sit down on that stool over there, will you?—All right! Now, then, just a little smile, please! That's it—no, no, you spoiled the expression just at the last moment there—you looked as if you were angry at Mr. Pickard, and I know you wouldn't be. You'd make a good stamp collector—hah! hah! Oh, your—ah—sweet-heart, eh?—No, not like that! Pleasant, wouldn't you now? All right, just imagine yourself over in the assembly hall just before your speech—What's—that? You never made a speech? Oh, I see—well, really, I'm sor—I didn't understand—excuse—no, no, excuse me—I wouldn't have hurt your feelings for anything. Just sit down again, please. Now, just get that scowl off your face. Well, whatever you do, smile—there, that's fine—no, not so much—there—so now hold it—you've had your picture taken before, haven't you? Well, remember how they told you to watch the birdie? Hah, Hah,—all right, the birdie's right up in my left hand—ri—i—i—i—ght up the—e—re, ste—eee—e-a-dy. Ho—o—old it. Watch r—i—ight up the—e—re. There you are, yep—all through now. Not so bad, was it? Hah, Hah, guess I sort of made a mistake when I thought you made speeches, eh, Mr. Mer? Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, proofs'll be ready Friday. Goodby!"

WHY PEOPLE GO INSANE

Conversation between a certain operator and H. E.:

H. E.: "I want Charleston 8888."

Op.: "Charleston, hey-hey! hey-hey!"

H. E.: "Yes, please. (after a few minutes) I'm waiting!"

Op.: "My dear, the world is waiting for the sunrise."

H. E.: "Yeh? And what do you think I'm waiting for?"

Op.: "Just a little love, a little kiss——"

H. E.: "Pretty fresh, aren't you?"

Op.: "I'm just a vagabond lover."

H. E.: "What for?"

Op.: "Not for just a day, not for just an hour——"

H. E.: "Come on, cut out the fooling and give me my party."

Op.: "Too many parties and too many pals——"

H. E.: "Now, look here, operator, cut out this fooling and get me my party or I'll report you to the manager and have you fired."

Op.: "I'm sorry, dear, so sorry, dear——"

(At this point the H. E. breaks down and weeps; the tears cause a short circuit and the H. E. wakes up in bed.)

"MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING"

She: Do you know, I think doing homework is the only way to get happiness out of life; don't you really think it is?

He: Yeh, I guess that's right.

She: I mean, if you are just concentrated on pleasure all the time, I don't think you get any real happiness out of life; do you think you do?

He: No, I guess not.

She: But don't you think it's terribly hard, sort of, to do things for others? Because, I mean, people sort of resent it when you try to do things for them, like telling them an answer is wrong; do you know what I mean?

He: Yeh, you bet.

She: I honestly think everybody should be glad to have somebody tell him his mistakes and everything; don't you really think he should?

He: Yeh, I suppose so.

She: But I think it just gets you in wrong when you try to help anybody that way; don't you think it does?

He: Yeh, you bet.

She: But I honestly think if people were sensible about this sort of thing and would realize you were telling them their mistakes just because you wanted to help them and all, it would be lots easier to sort of help others over the rough spots in school; do you know what I mean?

*Yours Truly,
Dore Bass*

SPRING

Ah! Spring is in the air; in field and lea
The birds, and bees and buds burst forth for joy;
I homeward wend; and shout and laugh: O Boy!
I'll sing to Spring a lay—tra la, tra lee.

What's this—who is—who can this person be
With mop and broom and dish-towel-turbaned head?
It's ma. The carpet's on the line. My bed—
It's gone! and cleaning everywhere—ah me.

The painters paint, and slash and daub and rub.
Our home's a wreck. I find no place to rest.
I make my dreary couch in the bath-tub.
I care not for the spring so rare and fine.
I'm sad when birds and buds burst forth for joy,
For then I know 'tis come: housecleaning time.

TO A LAKE

—Doris Carlson 3A

When nature's heralds shout aloud, " 'Tis spring,"
And human hearts take up the joyous cry
And swell with gladness and forget to sigh,
A lovely lake is first with joy to ring.

Then Spring has gone, and Summer's next to fling
Her soft, warm mantle down, as if to vie
With other seasons to make beauty lie
Around the lake, and tempt the birds to sing.

And then comes Fall, and vivid, colored days,
To grace the lake and paint its silent shores.
But when white Winter claims her gorgeous throne,
Studded with diamond frost, lit up with rays
Of paling sun, she to the lake restores
The glorious grandeur that is Winter's own.

O MOON

—Margaret Rice 3A

O lovely, calm, serene, and glorious moon,
What secrets does your misty orb withhold?
What mystery does your beautiful light enfold?
What message does your watchful eye entomb?
Do you look upon our earth with gloom?
Are you fearful, or are you vainly bold?
Do you know the thoughts I have, untold?
Do you know of birds or flowers that bloom?
I love to watch you from my shadowy seat,
And, wondering, dream of your heavenly bliss.
I long to know just what your thoughts may be,
And raise my questioning eyes to yours to meet
The answer to my queries, and wondering this,
O moon, I ask, if you even hear me?

Victoria Danner, 3A

PADDLING

Silver moon above,
Its reflection down below.
Calming troubled waters
Touching gliding prow.

Merry stars a-twinkle,
Paddles splashing clear;
Darkened outline of the trees
Making figures queer.

Whisper of a night bird
Crooning lullaby.
Low, soft, sound of laughter,
Sleepy waters sigh.

Sound of gentle lapping
On disappearing shore,
We're off for paddling
Till the birds awake once more.

—Grace Borger, 3B

SENIOR SILLOQUOY

Is this my History which I see before me,
Open to chapter nine? Come let me learn thee;
I have thee not, and yet I see thee still.
Are not you, fatal vision, sensible
To feeling as to sight? Or are you but
A drudgery of the mind, a false creation,
Proceeding from the heat-oppressed brain?
Oh, that thou wert!
I see thee yet, in form so beautiful
As this I now draw on my book.
'Tis not your fault that I took you;
You were required in my course.
Mine eyes are made the fools o' the other senses,
Or else worth all the rest; I see thee still,
And on thy margin are Marian, Fanny and Clara,
Who were not there before. There's no such thing as History,
It is a false imagination which informs
This to my eyes. Now o'er all of Roseland
Nature seems dead, and wicked dreams of tests abuse
The curtain'd sleep; now witchcraft celebrates
Pale Hecate's offerings, and passed statesmen
Alarmed by their sentinel, Mrs. Fenn,
Whose stern commands, and whose fiery glance
Bring forth their deeds of daring Congressional bills,
And famous words to torment me at night.
Thou sure and firm-set ghosts,
Hear not my mumblings, for fear
The very bones prate to my teacher,
And take the present topics and add more to them
For me to study. I go, the study period is over
And the bell calls me to 231.

CONGESTION

One thousand grinning skulls, many centuries old, each having its separate gruesome history, looked down from the dirty, spider-infested, cobwebbed walls of the terrible, merciless Princess Congestion the Great.

Seated in the castle courtyard, the world-defying Russell Stuebing, Police Commissioner of Fenger High, the man who never failed in any task or problems put before him, glanced up at the grinning, white skulls. Then he gazed down into the beautiful, cloudy eyes of the Princess.

"What is the proposition?" he demanded.

"I have sworn a vow," explained the Princess, "that I will wed the man who succeeds in performing a certain task. Any male human, or what have you, who can do this task wins my heart and hand and vast estates and——."

"An education at Minnesota," interrupted Russell.

The Princess nodded.

"But whoever attempts this task and fails," she continued, "gets his coco chopped off and set up on my castle wall."

"Woman," retorted Russ, "I am the man who has solved every problem and done every task to perfection that has been set before me. Why, I even understand women! Name the task."

"Many have failed," mused the Princess, looking up at her collection.

"Shucks!" snorted Russ, "I never fail. Don't waste my time. Woman——I should be home doing my Civics."

The Princess clapped her hands. A slave appeared with the roll of blue-prints.

"There is a diagram of the Fenger High School. Figure out a hall guard system that will work."

The next week, 1,001 grinning skulls looked down from the castle walls of the Princess Congestion the Great.

CHARACTER READINGS

Since our neighbors and our peers, their character and their futures are always of interest to us, we have called into consultation the great seer, Professor Stulay Merwal, illustrious both here and abroad for his clever interpretations, to analyze a few of our fellow Fngerites. Owing to the lack of space the handwritings of the "victims," we regret to say, could not be reproduced; but you, dear readers, can find copies there of, and for yourself verify the facts stated below.

—Humor Editor

HARRY BUDKA:

A great future, my dear young man, lies in store for you.—A second Walter Damrosch you will be. This I can fortell by the odd backward slope to your letters. Ah, yes, your unfinished "o's" show me you have a keen sense of humor, dominated only by your splendid sense of honor. The pointed "n's" portray that your fingers are gentle and are well trained to caress the keys of the piano. But beware, oh beware, a fatal tendency to put off, to let things drift,—as that may be your undoing.

MARY BARKER:

There is great happiness in store for you, my girl, in the tall majestic person of a blonde senior with size nine shoes. Now here is a rather unusual thing, the unfinishedness of the letters shows me that you are of a very conscientious nature and you are very particular about small things. Your closed "o's" show me that you are very adept at keeping your Sunny Side Up.

ROBERT TOURNQUIST:

Robert, there is a note of goodnaturedness about you, but you must not let this get too strong a hold on you because people are liable to take advantage of you. There is, in the wide formation of the "f", a clew to your gracious manner of taking criticism from teachers, but this too may prove to be your Waterloo, Yorkstown, or Appomattox. Beware! The cramped style and sturdy formation of the letters show that you have a wonderful talent for catching "pop flies" to center field.

ANDREW STUMPF:

There are many faults with your writing, Sir, but never fear I will not reveal them. You know that all the melon is not fruit. I see by the way you end the last letter of your name that you are of a very humorous nature. Take heed! There are many persons in your present surroundings that are waiting to take advantage of this trait. The formation of the "S" shows me that you are very skillful in the interpretation of scales and the Rondilik series of hieroglyphics. The way you form your "R" shows that you have a set of teeth, eight fingers and two thumbs.

FRANK JOHNSON:

After studying your handwriting, I find that by the way your writing starts on the line, goes over the line and then comes back that you start a thing, with great vigor, rise to a peak and then dwindle off into a mere shadow. Oh, yes, here is another important point. The unfinishedness of the majority of your letters shows me that you have a very shy nature and also a great liking for English and Latin.

GEORGE J. AIKEN:

My dear, fortunate, laudable, individual, distinct man, you are the first applicant with whom I could find no fault! I see by the odd formation of the "y" that you are very interested in younger boys and by the high crossing of the "t" I see that you are very just and friendly. The large "a" reveals to me that there is a great future in store for you as a mechanical drawing teacher.

AGNES ALEXANDER:

Miss Alexander, your small, cramped handwriting shows me that you like to visit strange places and see strange things. The formation of the "a" shows me that you try to improve or correct any fault that you find in anything in which you become interested. I see by the hook on the "p" that something pertaining to Scotland is present—ah—now it clears—it had its origin in that land—it is the far famed vocabulary-increasing game called golf.

FREDERICK W. SCHACHT:

In your handwriting, my dear sir, there is an abruptness in the beginning and ending of words which impresses me with the fact that you have a keen desire to have things done at once. The odd formation of the "s" shows me that you are a friendly and likeable character. The way you write "in" shows me that you have a taking way with young people, and that this particular class of persons will be responsible for a great part of your success in a certain line of work in which you are occupied. Beware! By the way you finish your "d" I see a small place by the lake surrounded by tall pine~~s~~ and sand hills. I also see that you will have difficulty with a set of stairs. Be warned!

MILTON ROSENBERG: -

Rosy a good friend and a pal.

After a careful analysis of your handwriting I find by the wide "e" that you are very easily influenced and can be drawn from your chosen path by the slightest persuasion. Take heed that this is not your future undoing. Your "h" shows you to be of athletic ability. There is a jumpiness to your "m" which leads me to believe you will have some influence on crowds at future athletic contests.

MARGARET RICE:

My esteemed client, I see by the wide "m" that you have a great literary career ahead of you and that you have already had some success in writing for newspapers and that you have made two young women famous. I see by the "i" that there is, in your future, going to be an inscription "C. C. R. R." on a bright red vehicle of conveyance that you will use frequently. From the "f" I want to warn you to beware of enlargement of the cranium resulting from undue praise from a fleshy woman.

RAGNAR FLESVIG:

My esteemed friend, why are you so bashful? Perhaps you are not, but the queer formation of the "F" shows that you are under the influence and guidance of a certain senior athlete who takes care of your social affairs and helps to guide you over the rough spots. Come, my lad, pull the ropes for yourself. The odd formation of the "k" shows a tall, light complexioned man of a very quiet disposition; and the short "p" shows a promising future as an athlete. Take heed of my warning or in a few short months you will be left without guidance.

ALMA MILLER:

My dear, quiet, little, modest blonde, I see by the peculiar twist of the "i" that you have before you a career as a helper to humanity in a hospital. The unfinishedness of the "y" shows me that you have a very great interest in a dark young man, the leader of the Senior Class. Beware of this, young lady, for more than one girl has fallen for this self-same senior with disastrous results. Take heed! Twenty pennyweights of caution is to be desired to sixteen ounces of remedy.

DOMINICK RAGO:

My friend, the odd formation of the "w" shows me that you are intensely interested in the art of self defense as applied to the manual appendages of the upper torso. The long "f" shows you have a very great adaptability in the mastication of dietetic vegetables. I see by this sign that you are very short and chubby. Be admonished, my man, for there are cauliflower ears, sanguinated noses, battered abdomens and unwanted dental extractions in store for you.

HELGE BENSON:

Mr. Benson, I see by the very characteristic close writing and tall formation of your letters that you have a very bad habit of blushing when you are spoken to by one of the fair girls at Fenger, especially a blonde who usually wears a covered wagon dress. Watch your step, my friend. When a fellow like you tumbles for a weak and helpless woman he usually tumbles hard. I give you this advice, for I have seen many men of your type go through the same thing. I wish to broadcast to the amblyopiac universe! I see by the formation of the "h" that you are slow to anger, but once angered you are a very formidable person.

NORMAN WILHELMSEN:

Ah, Norman, as the analysis of the writing is brought to a close, I see for you a career on the operatic stage; visions of Figaro, Tonio, Rigoletto, and Escamillo. There is a magnificent reinforcement to this foregoing statement, in the careful dotting of the "i" which reveals a golden voice. The forward and bold sweep of the signature shows a man of large stature and an idol of a certain species of homo sapiens. The even flow of the word formation showed a great interest in a blond but now a stately brunette is taking her place.

CLARENCE BAYNE:

There is, in your handwriting, a predominant feature; the careful, orderly, and stately formation of the letters indicates to me that you have a great military leaning. The large loops on the letters show you to be a leader of men and fixing of the sentence shows a precise and actual inclination toward the interpretation of figures. The little hitch connecting the double "o" shows that there is a special reason for the sudden liking for dancing. Ah, my dear young man, if you only knew.

MARION POOLE:

I see that there is a past to your life. You went to the Curtis Junior High School. As the large writing and the abbreviation of the "and" show a decided leaning toward the piano; this may be a way to future success. The peculiar sweep at the end of the "c" shows a special and unusual talent for the care of children. This fact, I believe accounts for the peculiar relation between the "i" and "n" which shows a decided liking for freshmen.

LAURETTA KOTWICKI:

Ah, my young Miss, beware of the certain handstand that may prove to be your downfall. This fact is revealed to me by the rapid, fast-moving slant of the letters, and this characteristic also shows me that you have a great wealth of athletic ability. The small cramped style shows that you are very careful to inquire into anything that is the least bit hazy in your mind. Beware! Undue inquisitiveness once accounted for the mortality of a certain species of carnivorous quadruped of the genus Felis.

EUGENE DYKSTRA:

This writing was so difficult to interpret I had to call in my esteemed friend, Yahooe U. Baby, to help me distinguish some of the fine characteristics in its form. After consulting together and referring to the nine guiding stars of the Zodiac we found that by the way in which the dot is placed in the near vicinity of the "i" that you are a profound football man. The slant of your letters revealed to us that you are very adept at making friends, but beware of a great weakness! Remember, my lad, that the female of the species is more deadly than the male! The queer "d" shows that you have a promising career in politics within the next two or three months.

IRVING ESCARRAZ:

Ah, my dear young man, I see from the peculiar interpretation of the sentence and the firmness of the signature that you have a very domineering nature. In fact you are too domineering and this trait will eventually bring you great unpopularity. The irregularity of the "r" shows me that you have a fancy for checkers, and from the careful formation of the "i", "o", and "u" I see that you may some day succeed in this game. The large "m" shows me that you are very clever at solving mathematical formulas.

ELI VON TOUR:

The peculiar hook on the "v" and "k" shows me that you are inclined to be eccentric and quick tempered. This, Eli, is one trait which young women seem to loathe, but in your case it seems as if they overlook the fault. Bravo! Bravissimo, Eli! The low "C" shows me somewhat that there is a tint of American Vermillion to the upper extremities of the cranium; and the peculiar manner in which the signature is written shows a hint of Duluth.

That's Their Weakness Now!

H. E'S TRAUM

There is a new apartment going up on the corner of Koch and Carrier Streets; and the firm of Broeker, Jansen, and Peterson is advertising it as ultra-modernistic, so Dekker, Carlson, Benedetto and I went down to look it over. We came to the front door and it was opened for us by an old friend, Alina Kieradlo. We were not less surprised when we found Geddes laying linoleum in the hallway. As the apartment was not yet furnished, we sat down on one of the kegs of nails from Riddell, Schuh, and Pivorunas Co. and began discussing the exquisite wallspace Kennett would have had to hang his signs. All at once the plaster began to move and crack, and we saw LaCroix, Tananewicz, Victor, Constance Walker, Anna Penn, and Novak come tumbling into the room. Carlson was so frightened that he let out a scream, and as he did so, Keller, Huddleston, Howell, Gayer, and Greek came through the ceiling. With this gathering we all became suspicious of our suppers; but before we had a chance to leave, the wall-sockets all slipped out, and there were Helen Kulan, Nick Maravolo, Marian Pederson, Wilma Buteikis and Wanda Bogowicz. We were more than dumfounded when Benedetto sneezed, and the plaster and all the fixtures jumped and landed back where they came from.

We decided to leave this place, and started down the hall. As we passed a bedroom there were Heath, Crosaro, Sasso, Gray, Cmelo, and Geo. Fox peacefully snoring,—just like old times! To reach the back porch we passed through the kitchen. While we were admiring the pantry, the cabinet was suddenly splintered into a million parts and there were Gunhild Anderson, Beech, Benne, Drumheller, Ruth Kartzke, Hazel Jung, Anna Hopkins, Heitzman, and Ellen Greiving. The refrigeration was the next apparatus to catch the disease, and from the doors of that streamed another stellar constellation consisting of Doris McNinch, Viola Nelson, Lillian Raklovitz, Stasewicz, Ruth Steinman, Strobo, Irene Lemieux, Evelyn and Ruth Larson. We all got out of there because we were afraid that someone would start asking questions. When we entered the kitchen again, the whole room was a seething mass of moving nuts, bolts and washers from which came before us a ballet of Scandaroovian dancers. Among this group we noticed: Helen Buchinski, Phyllis Dahms, Violet Debok, Bertha Dennis, Julia DuFresne, and Melba Erickson, assisted by Tomlinson, VanTryfle, Tietz, Bakkers, Kirkwood, Feuerstein, and Mikutis. Suddenly blackness overspread all. We rushed out on the back porch, and there we saw Radcliffe, Marian Badgley, Peterson, Carmello Venezianno, Meyer, Avakian, Ross, Alice Stevens, Wheeler, and Beryl and Bethel, digging tin cans in the back yard.

At this time I noticed a peculiar movement in the yard behind the apartment, and so we went down to see. There on the grass were a great number of apples from a nearby tree. As Dekker went to bite into one, he was almost knocked over by a large object springing away from him. When we looked at the apples again, they had taken shape and there were: Sophie Bartus, Louise DeBoer, Louise Peck, Esther Levin, Mildred Uphues, Esther Wille, Catharine Arvia, Stemper, Strain, Fannie Barnette, Helen Bleadon, Bonapart, Cox, Nelle Chizevsky, Sirmish Chakmakjian, and Rose Fina. It was nearing supper time. We left the yard and set out for home. The final surprise came at the corner of Doweiko and Albright Streets when six or seven bushes jumped up and did a lively dance. Collecting our wits we noticed: Stella Derkacy, DeBruin, Boskey, Boonstra, Helen Robinson, Rimkus, McLaren, Lillian Battaglin, and Angellena Bartelli in this ensemble. After this a double quartette composed of Graves, Louise Gorkowske, Gilkinson, Czarnecke, Flora Barnes, Albina Potapczik, Irene Kunter, and Helen Krumrie sang us a song about the man in the moon. As I looked up at the moon, our own little "Ziggy" winked at me. I went home, and as I opened the door Miss Robinson woke me up and told me to get busy and write some humor.
